WEDNESDAY EVENING, APRIL 14.

OID MAIDS -A Beneill: writer expresses his opinion of old maids in the following man ner: "I am included to think that many of the satirical aspersions cust upon old maids tell more to their credit than is generally imagined. It a young woman remarkably neat in her person, she will certainly be an old maid. Is she perfec ly reserved towards the other sex, she has all the aqueamishness of an o'd maid. Is she frugal to her expenses and exact in her domestic corcerns, she is cut out for an old maid. If she is kindly humano to the acimals about her, nothing can save her from the application of an old maid. In short, I have always found that nestness, modes y, economy and humanity ero the never failing characteristics of that terrible creature—the old maid. "It is no denbt a terrible thing to be an old maid, but so long as men drick rum, chew tobacco, smcke cigare, and act like beasts and fools, it is not the worst thing that can happen tures, docks and wharves, sand and gravel pits to a decent women. Lodged we should not have and deposits of materials and all other things beto hunt very far to find plenty of women who are not old maids, but who would give all their boots and shoes if they were; and who in bitterness and serrow lament the day when they suffered the yoke to be placed upon their nick, which is grievous and hard to be borne.

"Marriage is honorable in all, but if it is hon orable is should be honored, and those who make it a burden and curse and calamity, need not wonder that intelligent and donsiderate women fear to take the risks it involves.'
